

Narrative – I Lift

I was watching a Christian station on T.V. and a group of people were talking. One of them was bragging that his teenage daughter was so good.

My children were teenagers at that time and I was not having such an easy time with them. To make myself feel better, I said to myself out loud “I bet this daughter of his isn’t really all that good”.

God instantly spoke to me and told me to pray for his daughter. I intently started praying for her and my prayer turned into this song. I sang it over and over praying for this teenage girl I did not know anything about.

A few years later after this teenage girl had become an adult, I heard her give a testimony. She explained how she became really rebellious as a teenager and stopped serving the Lord for a while. But later she came back to the Lord and is now a missionary.
